Anthropology programs face opposing forces that require creativity, perseverance, and resilience

What can instructors do?

Build Positive Factors

Develop ways to connect students & help them share their experiences

Look for and learn from successful experiences & efforts in other depts.

Develop better connections with practitioners

Find ways of advocating for curriculum change and tenure reform

Minimize/Eliminate Negative Factors

Seek ways to build faculty capacity to teach practice

Discuss and negotiate the role of practice & application in your dept.

Seek, develop & share curricular resources with others through networks

Develop financial support for practice and for curricular change

Introduce New Factors

Create an 'invisible college' of instructors interested in practice

Develop and discuss broad standards for program excellence

Help develop an online platform to connect practitioners, students & instructors

Promote the creation of a national directory of practitioners
