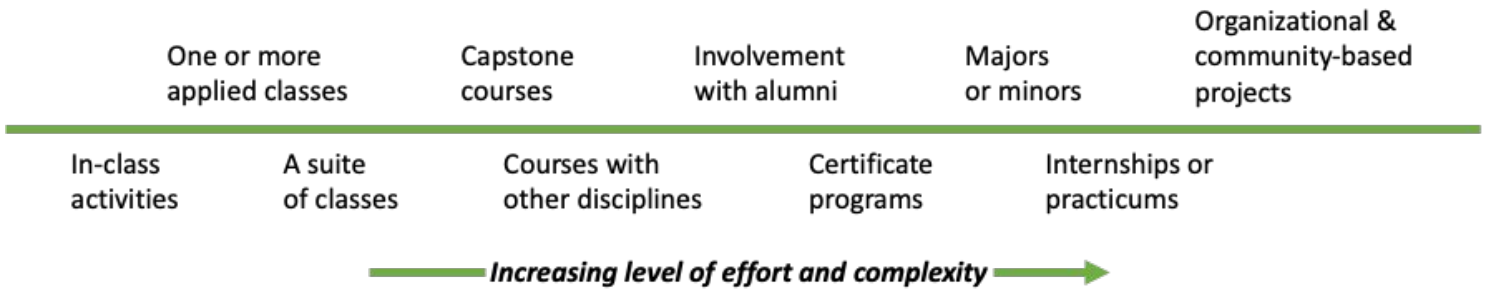
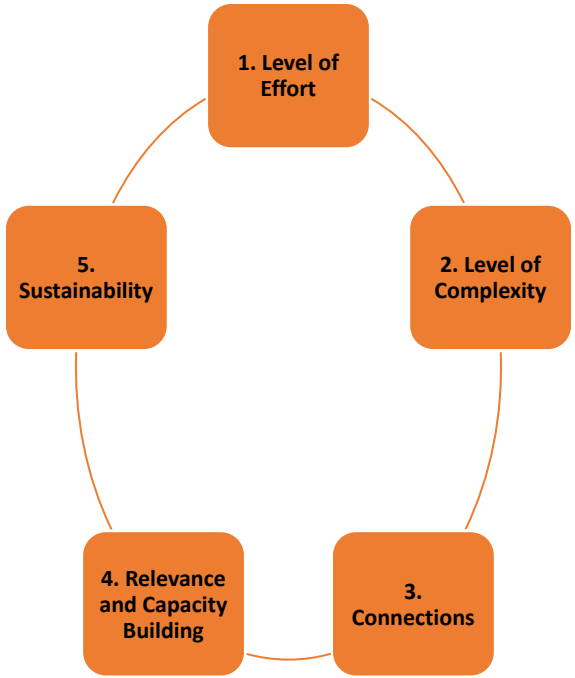
Anthropology programs have options when introducing/expanding application & practice

ANTHROPOLOGY CAREER READINESS NETWORK





1. Introduce some new course content related to practice and develop continuity across courses
2. Identify common ground among instructors and administrators to accelerate the program's development
3. Expand anthropology's core through courses cross-listed with other departments, experience in professional programs on campus, mentoring from university alumni and practitioners, and community projects and internships
4. Cultivate specific professional skills (e.g., communication, project planning, teamwork, proposal writing)
5. Institutionalize curricular changes, course requirements, and expectations
